IIMMP

Indigenous Interactive Multimedia Program

In partnership with Carleton University

July 4, 2011-March 9, 2012

An innovative interactive program in an Aboriginal(First Nation, Metis, Inuit) learning environment. Gain entry-level skills for employment opportunities and acceptance to Post Secondary Interactive Multimedia Design programs IndigenousInnovations@gmail.com

IIMM Program will:

Provide a Certified Interactive Multimedia Program

Offer professional development

Open opportunities for hands-on experiential learning in a strength-based, culturally safe learning environment

Provide a foundation to continue in a full time IMD college or university program.

Upon program completion participants will have created portfolios which:

Document formal and informal learning

Provide evidence of competencies gained through the program. The participants will be better prepared to apply to multimedia design programs at post secondary institutes such as the Interactive Multimedia & Design (IMD) program at Carleton University.

The IIMM Program is offered in an Indigenous environment, employing Indigenous Facilitators, Artists, and Elders

Participants will access Apprenticeships to be completed at:

Private or public Multimedia organizations

Communications departments in private or public corporation
